PMX's Second Annual Karaoke Contest was a one-round blitzkrieg, with individual performers competing head-to-head against groups. Once the scoresheets were tabulated, Mandy Andrew and her rendition of "Be Your Girl" from the TV series Elfen Lied emerged victorious. SuLing "Masako" Chan came in second place with a hyperactive performance of "Bye Bye Saigo no Yoru." The group calling themselves Insert Name Here rounded out the top three with "Canta Per Me["] from Noir. The Karaoke Department would like to thank the participants of last night's contest. Deviating from traditional at-convention karaoke, PMX karaoke welcomes performances outside of the usual anime/J-pop, with the presence of our VCD karaoke library. We can also play off iPods, Zens, and other devices that have a headphone jack. Finally, you can sing "Hit Me Baby One More Time" while cosplaying as your friends take photographs for future blackmail purposes once you've got your political career going.

Open mic karaoke will be open today, Monday, from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., so don't miss out!
